Voorhees Speaks Against the Tariff Bill.

Fires Near Grass Valley, California.

Congressional Proceedings.

By Associated Press.]
WASHINGTON, July 21.—At 3 o'clock the revenue marine bill was laid aside without action, and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the tariff bill and was addressed by Voorhees in opposition to it.

HOUSE.

In his prayer this morning the chaplain feelingly alluded to the death of representative Walker of Missouri.

The Committee on Public Lands reported a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Interior to inform the House by what authority and why he has authorized and directed the issue of patents to the Union Pacific Railroad Company for lands granted that company prior to the payment of the debt due the United States from said company; that he also report to the House the amount of land patented or certified to each of the land-grant corporations of the Union Pacific railway up to this date. Adopted.

On motion of Dockery of Missouri, by unanimous consent, it was ordered that the vote on the "original package" bill be taken to-morrow, and the vote on the bankruptcy bill on Thursday morning. Dockery then officially announced the death of representative James P. Walker from congestion of the brain, at Dexter, Mo., on Saturday afternoon, and delivered a brief eulogy. Appropriate resolutions were adopted and the House adjourned.

On motion the House select committee on our relations with Canada was authorized to continue its investigations during the coming recess and next session.

The House bill to amend the act of June 23, 1874, for the relief of settlers on railroad lands was reported placed on the calendar.

Dawes moved to proceed to the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

Gray asked him to permit the bill to transfer the revenue marine to the naval establishments to be taken up in the morning hour.

Morrill informed Dawes that if he did not proceed with the Indian appropriation bill he (Morrill) would move to proceed with the tariff bill.

Gray remarked that the Senator from Vermont could hardly expect to exclude all other matters that might not have the extent and magnitude of the tariff bill. There was no legislation that could be considered by the Senate during the remainder of the session that would not take some time from the consideration of the tariff bill, and he did not think the Senator should proclaim at the outset that nothing else should be considered.

Morrill said it was not his purpose to ask the consideration of the tariff bill in opposition to any other measure, except the appropriation bills.

Gray made a motion to proceed to the consideration of the House bill to transfer the revenue marine service from the Treasury to the Navy Department. Agreed to, yeas 30 nays 23.
The Republicans who voted yeas were Cameron, Casey, Cullom, Farwell, Frye, Ingalls, Mitchell, Spooner, Sawyer, Teller and Washburn. The Democrats who voted nays were Hale, Cockrell, Gorman and Pugh.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the House bill to transfer the revenue marine service. The bill having been read the date for the appointment of revenue marine officers to be officers of the navy was fixed for January, 1891.

So that practically would be of no service in the collection of customs revenue. The only object of the bill was to advance the pay of officers to the extent of $121,000 a year and to have them entitled to be placed on the retired list. These officers have not asked for the measure.

The Republican members of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections were again in session to-day considering the Federal election bill.
John L. Davenport of New York was called with the members this afternoon. It is understood the bill to be reported to the caucus is practically completed, but the time for a meeting of the caucus has not yet been fixed.

Thought to Have Been Innocent.

FRESNO, Cal., July 21.—On Saturday a stranger appeared at the farm of Samuel Hocking, near Selma, and criminally assaulted Mrs. Hocking.
On the husband's return she gave him a description of her assailant, which answered that of Clarence Remsburg, a traveling salesman, and the husband started in pursuit. Last evening Remsburg's team arrived at Haxleton, where his wife was stopping, and his dead body was in the buggy.
Hocking, in the mean time, had given himself up, but denied the killing.
Doubts of Remsburg's guilt are expressed.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., July 21.— Yesterday noon a fire broke out in the barn of Mrs. S. W. Piper in Pleasant Valley, which destroyed the building and contents. Three valuable horses were burned. The fire spread to the fields and woods of Pleasant Valley and burned over that fine agricultural section. It is reported Lougbridge's and Douglass' ranch buildings were burned.

Yesterday afternoon a fire broke out near the Allison ranch mine, and James Looney, aged 70, while fighting fire, was burned to death.

HARTFORD, July 21.—Five hundred members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen held a meeting yesterday. Resolutions were adopted favoring the passage of the bill pending in Congress, requiring railroads to use automatic brakes and couplings on freight cars. A resolution also pledged the members to do all in their power to prevent trainmen from working on Sundays.

AN UNDERGROUND HOMICIDE.

A Miner Kills a Shift-Boss With an Ax.

Last night just as the regular shift were descending on the cage of the Savage shaft, at 11:30 P. M., on the famously called graveyard shift, as they reached the 1200 foot level, the foreman, William Nichol, questioned a miner named Pat Crowley, and ordered him to go on top on account of his inebriated condition. This irritated Crowley, and on arriving at the level he chased Nichol a short distance from the shaft, and nearly decapitated him with a hand ax. There were two or three others on the cage with the unfortunate Nichol, who, when they saw the trouble, rang the cage bell and started for the surface. The infuriated Nichol kept pelting signals on the bell rope to lower, while the men on the succeeding cage finally averted by cutting the bell rope. Crowley was immediately taken into custody.

NEWSPAPER MEN FARE ILL.

Reported Fighting in Central America.

A Mining Company Fined for Contempt.

Could not Resist Fire.

NEW YORK, July 21.—For the first time since the fire on Friday, Jay Gould this morning was at his office on the second floor of the Western Union building. Little damage was done by water there, and the usual force of clerks are engaged in their usual routine. He said to a reporter:
"I was not connected with the company when this building was erected, but understood it to be as nearly fireproof as it was possible to be. The floors, walls and stairways were all indestructible, of course, but necessarily the vast amount of fuel was on hand in the furniture needed to accommodate so many persons. It must be said, however, in view of the probable origin of the fire, that had it broken out at any other time it would have almost certainly been extinguished at once. The fire doubtless arose from the contact of several wires, which were raised to a white heat by combined currents, igniting the covering of the wires and woodwork near by.
The men usually on hand where the fire began, were not there to check the spread of the flames, which were not discovered until they had made some headway. When the fire was at its length noticed, the force of men on the spot was unequal to accomplish what they at first attempted, namely, to extinguish the fire without giving an alarm. Thus instead of saying that at any other hour the fire would probably have caused great loss of life, it is, doubtless, proper to say that at any other hour the building would not have been destroyed."

Fined for Contempt.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—The Circuit Court took up the case of Edward Woodruff against the North Bloomfield Mining Company et al. Judge Sawyer fined the Omega Mining Co., one of the defendants, $3,000 for contempt.
The defendants own mining property in Placer county, and action was brought to restrain them from dumping their debris in the Sacramento river. An injunction was placed to restrain them from hydraulicing, but the Court held that they violated the edict.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 21.—The City of Mexico has published an account of a battle between the Guatemalans and San Salvadorians in San Salvador, in which the former were defeated with heavy loss. The Guatemalan forces numbered 9,000. General Barrunda, a Guatemalan refugee, will probably raise the standard of revolt in Guatemala, and it is rumored that President Barillas talks of resigning.
Private telegrams from San Salvador say the Guatemalan artillery was captured in a battle on Thursday.

Inaccurate Reports.

By Cable and Associated Press.]

PARIS, July 21.—The Guatemalan Minister here, referring to a report from Mexico that war has broken out between Guatemala and San Salvador, said the telegrams from Mexico are inexact. War has not been declared, he said, and no Guatemalan troops have crossed the frontier of San Salvador. It is the Minister's opinion that the fighting referred to in the dispatches must have occurred in the interior of San Salvador between the factions in that country.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

FOR years Congress has been laboring with the proposition of reimbursing Nevada, California and Oregon for certain war claims to which these States are justly entitled. The claim of California is $2,451,369.66, of Nevada $444,000.70, and of Oregon $224,526.53. The several amounts were expended for the benefit of the General Government, and there is no reason why they should not be paid.

A bill has been introduced to honor these claims, and is now pending in the lower House, having passed through the committee with a favorable recommendation. An effort will be made to provide for the reimbursement in the deficiency bill. Congressman Clunie is making the matter a specialty, and to his efforts in behalf of justice is largely due the successful position the measure now holds. He has as his special aids Senators Stewart and Hearst, with the entire delegation of the several States interested. With this prestige, and with the precedent of the Texas war claims, Congress should do these States equity by providing at this session for the prompt payment of the sums, honestly expended in a time of need by the several States. This done, those pressing these rights will be entitled to additional laurels.

SENATOR SHERMAN gives it out that he favors the election of members of Congress under Federal authority. "The Government," he says, "ought to take supreme control of such elections even to the extremity of defraying every expense incident thereto, including printing and furnishing of tickets. The Constitution imposes this duty on the Federal power and it should exercise it."

"THE SPEAKER'S ERROR," by X. M. C., one of the leading articles in the July number of the North American Review, was ordered printed in its entirety in the Congressional Record as part of the regular business of the House of Representatives on the 11th inst. This is the first time in the history of Congress such a distinction has been accorded any periodical.

A "ONE-STEP" item in the Sacramento Bee of the 19th inst. on the lottery question indicates that members of the Nevada and Louisiana Legislatures are not the only people who have been "seen" by the lottery managers.

NEWS NOTES.

The estimates of population by the new census range from 65,000,000 to 67,000,000.

Ghostly stories are told of a picturesque cottage in Marietta, which no one will rent.

The former home, in Marietta, of the late Alexander H. Stephens, is owned by a negro.

It is proposed to connect New York and Philadelphia by a canal costing over $12,000,000.

A number of wealthy Chicago brewers have subscribed $27,000 toward the proposed Baptist University.

The Sheriff of Montgomery county, Penn., complains that he is kept too busy selling out failing farmers.

The railroad companies of the country have subscribed to date $655,000 to the stock of the World's Fair.

Owing to war between the brewers, the price of beer in Chicago has dropped from $5 to $3.50 per barrel.

The Louisiana Lottery question must now remain in abeyance until the Supreme Court gives a decision.

Orchardists in Colorado protect their trees from jack rabbits by rubbing the body of the trees with a brown rind.

The Bigler Estate.

Mayor Comstock of Sacramento has received a letter from James Clay of Bell's Landing, Penn., whose mother is a sister to the late Governor Bigler, asking if the latter left a will in California. The writer says that all the nearer relatives of Bigler are dead, and the sister claims any property he may have left here.

Dangerous Operation.

FREE LEWIS' TREASURE.

A Thrifty Negro Who Buried $4,000 Without Telling Where.

In the old ante-bellum days, when our people lived in peace and plenty, the village of Salem, Oconee County, S. C., was a flourishing little town of several hundred inhabitants.

Forty or fifty years ago Salem was a resort for the prominent men of all that section contiguous to the place, comprising portions of Oconee (then Clarke), Morgan, Greene and Oglethorpe. A flourishing school of several hundred pupils was located there, and a few of the old men now living in that section spent their young days at that school. As the railroads were built in the country, Salem's citizens followed the wake of the iron horse, and her population gradually decreased. At a period just before the war, there lived in this quiet little village an old negro who was known as "Free Lewis." What his real name was, it is now hard to say, as he is only remembered by a few old people as "Free Lewis." He was an honest, hard-working negro, and had the knack of making money and still the greater faculty of saving it. He had once belonged to a Mr. Sweeney, of Salem. One day he carelessly asked his master if he could buy himself free. His master told him yes, and named the price, $1,200. Lewis then began saving his money, earned at odd times, and at the end of a few years he had accumulated the amount. Joyfully he went to his master and paid the sum. Freed from the fetters of slavery, Lewis began his trade, for he was a carpenter and blacksmith, and by hard work and close living he soon had a small amount of money laid aside. The pile never diminished, but daily increased as his wages were added to it.

Just at the approach of the late war Free Lewis had in actual gold $4,000. This is said to be a fact well known. "My father," said Mr. Sweeney Smith to a Madisonian reporter, "had counted this money over time after time for old 'Free Lewis,' and he had just $4,000 at the beginning of the war." As the war was drawing nearer and while yet the thunders of artillery were ready to peal forth at Fort Sumter, Lewis was suddenly taken ill, one day and died in a few hours after his attack. In his dying breath he tried to tell his white friends where his money was, and all they could catch of the dying man's words were: "Money—in-ground."

The thunders of war shook the heavens and Salem's sons marched off to do battle for their country. Gallantly they fought, and many lost their lives for the Southern Confederacy. The war over, the warriors returned to their desolate homes. The men of Salem, stripped of their property, remembered the words of "Free Lewis" and at once began to work for the buried treasure. Knowing that Lewis had not a kinsman in the world and that the finder would be entitled to the money, the men worked with all their might and power. Acre after acre of land was turned up by plow, shovel and pick and every rock was turned, but the treasure was never found. Years have passed away, whose flying periods have witnessed other efforts upon the part of Salem's people to discover the treasure, still the spot is unknown.

To-day $4,000 lies hidden in the quiet little village of Salem just beyond the picturesque Appalachian river, in Oconee County, and "Free Lewis' secret is sleeping in his humble grave with his moldering remains. The memory of "Free Lewis" and his treasure only exists in the minds of a few old people of that section and his name is rarely ever heard.

That the treasure is buried in Salem no one doubts, but the exact spot no one knows.

'RETTY LITTLE SCENE.

Gallantry of a Small Urelin to a Very Small Damsel.

The passengers on a Pennsylvania annex boat enjoyed a pretty little scene the other day, says the New York Tribune, in which the gallantry of a small boy of six or seven would compare with that of Mrs. Burnett's far-famed little lord. He was a sturdily built little fellow, and dressed in his pea-jacket, with knickerbockers and military cap, looked the picture of a little gentleman. Occupying the seat next to him was a fair little maiden, perhaps three years old, who wished very much to see the book which the boy held in his hand. In the most gentle and courteous way he showed her the pictures, explaining, in his childish fashion, their meaning.

Not content with this, he began to tease his mamma to let him give the book to his admiring pupil. The mother seemed pleased, but said: "Why, I thought you wanted me to buy this book so you could have it to read on the cars going home?"

"So I did, but can't the little girl have it?" She finally gave her consent. His face lighted up, and the little gallant handed his beloved book to the shy maiden at his side. Great was his surprise and disappointment to have it refused in the most decided manner, and, as he took the rejected book and walked off the boat, he looked the picture of despair. He did not forget, however, to turn around at the last moment and touch his hat to his little friend, who, as she held fast to her mother's hand, said: "Good by, little boy."

The Story of a Famous Duel.

Without doubt the most tragic duel ever fought in the vicinity of New York City was the deadly contest between Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr. Historic as it is, stories not given in the books are being retailed about it. Fitz Green Washington, a great-grand-nephew of the father of his country, has an account of the affair from his grandfather, Captain Fitz Hughes. The Captain learned after the start where the fighting ground had been located, and was rowed across the North river by a couple of slaves. When he arrived the antagonists had taken positions. Hamilton and Burr were to fire twice or thrice. At the word of command Hamilton fired at Burr and Burr fired in the air. At the second firing Hamilton fired in the air and Burr shot Hamilton. Hamilton thought Burr meant to kill him, as he meant to kill Burr, but when he saw the discharge in the air he changed his tactics, as did Burr, and with fatal results. This is said to be the true history of the duel fought by these two great men.

Steady Progress

Has characterized Hood's Sarsaparilla ever since it was placed before the public. Over-estimated, its sales have grown from year to year, until now it is the most popular and most successful medicine offered. Any druggist will confirm this statement. The secret of this success lies in the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a medicine of merit. It does actually accomplish all that is claimed for it, and when given a fair trial, is reasonably certain to be of benefit.

Positive Statements.
"Since Hood's Sarsaparilla has been in my hands for sale I have had frequent and unreserved testimonials in its favor. Although carrying this preparation for less than one year, my sales have been greater than of any similar preparation, and the testimonials in its favor are at once positive and personally noticeable." A. W. Wainwright, Haledsburg, Cal.

Sells On Its Merits.
"My boys say, 'Papa, why don't you buy more of Hood's Sarsaparilla at a time, we are always short.' It sells on its own merits." F. B. Pratt, Portland, Oregon; the oldest druggist in Oregon.
